THE VINE
FORT WAYNE BIBLE COLLEGE
1904-1980

To the Seniors:

Commendation

In 1898 in Bluffton, Ohio, the seed of a vine was planted as the beginning of a ministry producing many fruits for God's glory. After several years, the vine was transplanted to Fort Wayne. Those men instrumental in this change were affirmed in their selection of fertile soil as the vine took deep root with "head and heart" education going "hand in hand". With its roots deeply embedded in God's Word, the vine grew. Not even a depression and a major war hindered the ripening of God's fruit. Enrollment may have declined, but God was constantly watching over His vine.

Four Leaders

Fort Wayne Bible College has had four presidents. Rev. J.E. Ramseyer was the first president. "Daddy Ramseyer," as he was affectionately called, was known for his great love of the Bible. He had much to do with the beginning of the Missionary Church Association. Daddy Ramseyer was president from 1912 until 1944.

Dr. Safara A. Witmer, the second president, graduated from Fort Wayne Training School. He spent some time on horseback in Western Canada, ministering in a rural area. Witmer, known for his gift of teaching which he exercised at the Bible College, also had other interests. Because of his interest in flying, a course was initiated at the college, but a near-fatal accident caused the course to be dropped. Witmer served as president from 1945 to 1957.

The third president, Dr. Jared Gerig, served the college from 1958 to 1971. Dr. Gerig also served as the president of the Missionary Church Association, president of the National Association of Evangelicals, and vice-president of the Accrediting Association of Bible Colleges. When some difficulty was experienced in getting permission to build on the south campus of the college, it was Dr. Gerig who succeeded in battling the legal opposition.

Dr. Timothy Warner has served as president since 1971. Known to his students as "Dr. Tim," he is a Taylor University graduate and received his doctorate from Indiana University. Dr. Tim has been the vice-president and the president-elect of the America Association of Bible Colleges. Dr. Tim, a familiar face around campus, remains an active participant in student activities. Often Dr. Tim has fascinated the students with accounts of his life as a missionary in Africa.

Relaxing, Relating

Bethany Hall was built in 1929-30. In 1938 three-year degrees were added to the existing two-year degree programs. The vine spread during the post-war years, and eventually four- and five-year programs became possible. Fort Wayne Bible Institute became Fort Wayne Bible College in 1950. Churches beside the Missionary Church supported the college. It became a school having a missionary outlook with a practical and spiritual emphasis.

The year 1954 saw evident signs of maturity in the vine that are still clearly visible and more apparent. Acquisition of south campus gave room for expansion. In 1975 WBCL began broadcasting. The vine of God's own planting is continually blossoming forth into full maturity, producing much fruit.

Students today, as well as yesterday, take time for fun and fellowship.

Senior Activities: Sit, Sat, Sitting

No matter where a person looks these days, chances are good that he will spot one or many seniors doing their thing. Their thing? Sitting around naturally. This seems to be the hottest pastime to hit old B.C. since "sheeting." This new "senioric" urge sweeping the campus can be accounted for through numerous theories. The first theory is that, as McDonalds says, "You deserve a break today," and they're obviously taking their break whenever possible. The second theory is that after four plus years of running around campus, their feet have all worn off. The third and final theory being presented is simply that sitting is closer to "sheeting" than standing. But whatever the reason for their new obsession for sitting, they seem to be fairly adept at their new craze. Not to mention the fact that they seem to be enjoying themselves.

The Junior Class of 1979-1980 completed a very full and active year. The Juniors sponsored a Nite-at-the-Movies which featured "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers." A Class retreat to Epworth Forest was highlighted by fun and games and a aura of unity. A great deal of time was also spent in the planning and preparation for the annual Jr.-Sr. Banquet. The theme for this year's banquet was "Shadows of a Rising Sun." Another highlight of the year was the leadership and amusement provided by their sponsor, Mr. Arlan Birkey. All of these activities and more, helped to make this a very interesting year.

Everyone Gets Into the Action

The Sophomore Class enjoyed a profitable year regardless of the changes taken place in leadership. Highlights of the year included the film "Christiana" and a very enjoyable Kangaroo Court. But, with the passing of years come new responsibilities. Aside from the fun, the Sophomore Class has experienced encouraging growth over their two years at B. C. With these thoughts in mind, they eagerly anticipate the two years of their education which lie ahead. Years that will continue to mold them into the leaders Christ has called them to be.

Freshmen Experience a New Beginning

The beginning of the school year was one of anticipation and anxiety for the incoming freshmen. The world was whirling around with new dimensions forming from every direction, but that wasn't all . . .

"Dr. Lehr," along with the Sophomore class, provided the new class with an enchanted tour of the Islands of Initiation. For some unknown reason the Sophomores believed that stripes and checks along with polka-dots and plaids made for great coordination. The week climaxed in a required "invitation" to Kangaroo Court, which is an annual tribal festivity.

Joining the Sophomores for a hayride, the first yearers congregated in the hayloft for old-time movies and had refreshments in the barn while taking turns going on the hayride. In February, two events took place: the Winter Olympics enabled the classmates to participate in various activities while the carnation sale enhanced the Valentine giving spirit.

FACULTY
STAFF

Elementary Education and Music

The faculty teaching in these two areas have immediate concerns for their student's performance which extend beyond the classroom testing. The big questions are how well will the education student perform in front of his classroom during his course in Practice Teaching and how well will the music student perform in his many public appearances on stage.

Linton, Randy
Instructor, Music

Martin, Alice
Instructor, Teacher Education

Nickel, Ted
Associate Professor
Chairman, Music Department

Platte, Jay

These faculty members have heavy responsibilities for tours, field trips, and many student observations in classroom situations throughout the community and in many student recitals. In addition they serve on committees and as advisers. Ira Gerig is on the Executive Committee and the Teacher Education Council; Jay Platte, in addition to being chairman of the Music Department, is also on the Teacher Education Council as well as the Tours Committee, and coordinates the Stage management. His responsibilities are heavy for in addition to keeping the science lab in top shape and teaching the freshmen Bible Survey courses, he serves on the Executive Committee, the Curriculum Committee, and the Presidential-Search Committee. The responsibilities of the others teaching in this division are varied. Sonja Strahm directs HIS Company (the Christian Service drama troupe) and co-advises The Vine (student yearbook) with Eunice Conrad. Char Binkley in addition to her position with WBCL and her classroom teaching serves on the Executive Committee and the Teacher Education Council. Grant Hoatson is adviser to Student Association; Barbara Ferguson, adviser to the Freshmen Class; and Wava Bueschlen, librarian, is faculty adviser to the Youth Conference Committee.

Volleyball Has Changes

The season was indeed trying and difficult for girls' volleyball if one were to only measure success according to scores or according to the win-loss record. However, for Coach Kephart and the ten-member team the year brought growth not only in many volleyball skills but especially in spiritual matters. The effort in every practice and the trials which were overcome can in no way be reflected totally in the season's record. What really and ultimately mattered to Coach Kephart and the girls was the witness and fellowship in Christ which they experienced together and with the teams they played.

Falcons Show Their Spirit

The guys' basketball team persevered many hardships this year. A rash of injuries at the most inopportune times spelled defeat for the very talented team. These injuries not only kept the team busy, but they also tried the virtuosity of Frank Tipton, the team's manager, at wrapping and soaking ankles and knees. His expertise in this therapy and Coach Morley's encouragement and driving spirit kept the team going when others would have quit. Through the many defeats and setbacks, the team's morale was high while they still clung to the elusive hope till the very end.

With coach Randy Nigh, director of Urban Youth Ventures, the Soccer Club initiated a challenging season of hard work and practice. Although the club did not win any games this year, the thirteen-membered team ran each game closely right down to the last second. Since the involvement in the Soccer Club has risen, Coach

Nigh has aspirations of turning the sport into varsity at the college level next year. With members of the soccer club coming from such far away places as South Africa, Haiti, and Belgium, the student interest in soccer as a popular international sport is evidenced.

Wrestling and Volleyball Clubs

The Wrestling Club was both large and small; the members were sizeable guys, but membership was sparse. The main emphasis of this club was relaxation. The members engaged in friendly fellowship while releasing tension built up from a long day of classes.

The newly formed Volleyball Club began an exciting season by rising at 6:00 a.m. for a two-hour practice. Playing teams such as Purdue, Ohio U., Wheaton, and Ball State made practice rewarding. The team's goal was to witness for Christ both on and off the court.

Alpha Kappa, the Vine and S.E.A.

Alpha Kappa, otherwise known as the Greek Club, remains under the auspicious leadership of Arlan Birkey. With meetings scheduled once each month and four meetings in a year which are mandatory, the Greek Club seeks to bring a common unity to New Testament Greek students.

The VINE staff exists, persists, and even resists; exists to preserve history—our own, persists by putting in long, long hours to get the work done, and even resists attending events in order to meet deadlines. Thus, the VINE continues to grow.

The Student Education Association is a local chapter of the National Education Association with Mr. Nickel as acting advisor. SEA meetings, throughout the year, inform education majors about their future student teaching responsibilities. Teaching techniques, whether modern or traditional, are explored. Also, insights are given for solutions for foreseeable problems in the teaching profession. Today's Education and NSEA magazines are added benefits. With workshops and field trips, SEA forms a very valuable basis for teaching experiences.

The Student Advisor structure, in ministering to the individual wings of the college, offers both a very personal basis for readily available counseling and good Christian fellowship. The Student Advisors must not only be teachers at wing meetings, but also excellent examples of the power of Christ in their daily walks. Being a Student Advisor is a full time job for the duration of the school year. The responsibility is a large one which tries and perfects many qualities in each advisor.

Back Where It All Started

Even though Youth Conference is only a weekend occurrence, the preparation for this event is year-long in endurance. Many members of both the student body and the faculty and staff contribute lengthy hours of hard work to make Youth Conference run as smoothly as possible throughout the 48-hour ordeal. As days turn into weeks, the ensuing moments disclose even more arduous jobs to be done. Delegation of authority is the key to a successful over-all picture in the final analysis. The steering committee is instrumental in incorporating all ideas into a cohesive reality.

CHRISTIAN SERVICE

CS: A Vital Part of FWBC

The Christian Service Department is exactly what the name implies: followers of Christ serving in churches and church related organizations. The objectives of the Christian Service Department are representative of the practical aspect of the Fort Wayne Bible College. In the acquiring of a skill related to the student's academic major, whether counsel or teaching, the student learns how to cooperate not only with supervisors and co-workers, but he also becomes adept to the responsibilities and requirements of his program. The experience that the student receives in this assignment is invaluable in that further use of the concepts learned brings a sense of achievement and accomplishment for Christ.

CS: Community Work

C.S. Serves the Church

The assignments for the Christian Service projects are prepared in such a way that the student is encouraged in developing his personal growth and vocational skills to become more effective in some means of outreach or edification. The Christian Service department is in operation so that the student can find this personal niche in which he is called to serve. The Christian Service Department can assist the student in wisely deciding upon the appropriate endeavor, and if necessary they can advise as to the possible solutions to whatever problems encountered.

HIS Company Serves to Honor HIM

HIS Company, a Christian Drama group of FWBC, had a very broad ministry to many church and church related organizations this year. Jonathan Spyker, the student director of HIS Company stated that "Creativity, flexibility, and love are but a few words that describe the 1979-80 HIS Company Drama team. Together, they have helped elevate 'Christian' drama even more into the realm of a valid effective and recognized supporting church ministry."

"Promise" Reveals His Love

CLOCKWISE STARTING AT TOP LEFT: Promise is comprised of Doug Lightcap, Dennis Kesler, Valarie Nyenhuis, Gaylen Waters, Angela Widmark, Deb Springer, Marty Longcor, and Doug Hayes. Promise performs in concert. The men of Reflection do a number minus the women. Reflection performs during the Christmas program. Reflection is comprised of Duane Mabee, Hal Lehman, Michele Gibeau, Mitsuru Kato, Susan Rose, Mike Macchiarella, and Greg Tatum. The women of Reflection sing out. Deb Springer sings during Home Concert. Promise warms up for Youth Conference.

"Promise," in the words of Deb Springer their student director, "was eight students who learned to work, share, laugh, love, and minister together. We were a group who desired to share God's love and His available gift. This gift was reflected in our year verse, I John 2:25, 'And this is the promise He Himself made to us: eternal life.'"

"Reflection" of His Glory

The talented group Reflection presented a most fulfilling message through song, instrumentals, and testimonies. Their director, Greg Tatum related that "As we saw the importance of the transforming power of Christ to change lives, we realized the importance of ministry, and as a result we ministered to many hearts in His power."

Envoy

Envoy, having been under the supervision of Student Missionary Fellowship, became the property of the Christian Service Department this year. With an entirely new group this year, Envoy established a unique program which included singing, interpretive reciting, and a beautiful slide presentation. Stan Cushing, student director of Envoy said that "This year was an exciting and growing experience for all of us. We learned the necessity of being flexible and applying the Philippians 2, united-in-spirit-intent-on-one-purpose attitude."

RIGHT: Mark Terui, Melodie Nelson, Tari Cruse, Stanley Cushing, Darlene Loucks, and Jeff Kehler form Envoy. BOTTOM FAR RIGHT: Melodie grimaces in Unguarded Gaps. Special Chapels Give Variety

Be ye serious of mind and light of heart, or light of mind and serious of heart—this year's chapels had it all for you. From the first Falcon Feather of the year to the beautiful presentation by our Hawaiian students, our chapels were unique and special. Times of laughter, tears of joy and of sorrow, challenges, victory; all blended together to create a year to remember.

Events Are Mortar For Study Bricks

Spiritual Emphasis Begins B.C.'s Y.C.

Youth Conference has remained a very prominent factor in the extension of reinforcement of the spirit of Fort Wayne Bible College. With an attendance of 367 persons, both from the United States and countries abroad, Youth Conference contributed in broad terms to the lives of all who participated in its planning, direction, and organization; but, most of all, it contributed greatly to the lives of the conferees who took part in its activities. The seventy-eight hour weekend of April eleven through thirteen proved to be the single most excitement-filled time period of the year for those involved.

The planning of the conference began nearly a year before its actual happening as committees began to meet weekly to consider the possible theme, variety of activities, special speaker, meal arrangements, housing details, and many other items of particular importance in putting together a smooth-functioning, meaning-filled Youth Conference.

Not only were the committee members instrumental in the actual days of the conference, but the Student Advisors also took on special duties in the leadership aspect of the separate groups which met. Since this year's theme was "Building to Last," the dorm wings were divided into various unions such as plumbers, electricians, brick-layers, carpenters, painters, and welders of which the Student Advisors were to supervise and maintain enthusiasm in a Christian atmosphere. The meetings Student Advisors were responsible for were Sunday School class, Saturday afternoon recreational activities, and union meetings wherein they made up slogans and songs. All these responsibilities were in addition to their regular dorm duties.

Much and Many are the Happenings

The speaker for Spiritual Emphasis and for Youth Conference was Buddy Burge, director of Campus Life Clubs in Toronto, Canada. A total of twenty-one individuals committed their lives to Christ and many others rededicated themselves with the helpful leading of willing counselors.

Interspersed with the meaningful spiritual aspects of the weekend were a variety of fun activities within the unions. Thus, the conferees were able to see and enjoy times of relaxation and fun with friends and college students.

All this went together to give the conferees a balanced idea of college life at a Bible college. When the realization of the potentials for soul-winning is met in this group of 367, the thought is astounding; such a beautiful weekend for influence for His kingdom!

Nuts . . . ?

Bolts . . . ?

To add to the liveliness of the weekend, and on the lighter side, Comicality was a hit with many. A variety of talents and perhaps not especially talents were demonstrated before a full house. Have you ever talked to your margarine? Do you "pledge" to dust your furniture or "salute" your commanding officer? Did you know we have our own Ed Sullivan, Dr. Wes? Oh, a laugh ever so often is good, isn't it?

The weekend of Youth Conference was short, yet long; it was boisterous, yet sober; it was, and shall continue to be, the turning point and resolution in lives yet to be counted for the Kingdom of God. For when the foundation is Christ, all that is built for God in the light of eternity lasts. Youth Conference "built to last."

Seniors Honored at Special Banquet

"Shadow of a Rising Sun" was the theme for this year's Junior-Senior Banquet. This long anticipated spring event is a special tribute to Seniors which signifies that school is ending and that graduation is just around the corner.

The banquet was held on the evening of April 25 at 7:30 at Goegleins Reserve. There the participants dined on Chicken Cordon Bleu and various delectable trimmings. This meal was followed by some humorous awards given to Seniors and a slide show which included pictures of many Seniors. Russ Rogers, the guest speaker, completed the evening by a moving challenge to the Seniors.

TOP LEFT: Dr. Wes is given an award for being "the most picked on professor"; TOP CENTER: Mr. Scharfe extends his usual cheerful greeting; TOP RIGHT: Brenda Allen is honored for her diligent efforts in planning this banquet; BOTTOM LEFT OF CENTER: Could Larry and Geff be asking Will if he is going to be the next to get engaged? Lexington—a girl's dorm and private world. Where the sound of a phone is a source of constant irritation. Where the appearance of a man can bring panic. "Man in the hallllll!" "Again!" Where nothing ever goes wrong except for water that runs red, showers that won't drain, neighbors who won't shut up, rooms that won't heat, rooms that won't . . .

Where the wrong is worked out until it is right, like a night of cartoons, a special Christmas gift from each wing to the rest of the dorm (and Santa and his deers showed up) Valentine's Day where "Love a Lexington Lady" was the vogue of the day and guys were warned about little arrows in the air.

Lexington is a place for making friends, learning lessons about being Christ-like and making this their lifestyle. It's where influences from RA's and SA's and others shape lives and build characters. Lexington—a girl's dorm.

Living It Up

Life in Schultz might be described as living in the "pits" or above that level; but if such is "pitty" living, it certainly is done in style. Ice machine (a secret? meeting place), plush carpet and arena-hall wrestling matches make it a dorm of action. Who else but Schultz guys throw water balloons from their windows on unsuspecting Bethany Babes and Lexington Ladies? But to the more serious side (east side?), Schultz is a home away from home, a place to sit and relax, to get together to discuss academic and spiritual concerns, and to "grow more and more in the grace and knowledge" of the Lord.

Bethany dorm houses about 85 girls. It is a comfortable old building spared of such luxuries as bathtubs and open lounges. Because of the closeness of its quarters, girls usually get to know the others living around them quite well. This is due partially to bathroom visits and walls that allow for unintentional eavesdropping.

There are many memories to be found in Bethany; lining up against the walls in the halls for wing meetings, sharing with a roommate, waiting in line for the shower, and fellowship in the basement lounge.

Bethany girls feel at home in this lived-in-look that Bethany Hall provides. The hissing and humming of the radiators adds atmosphere. Minor inconveniences and repairs become such a part of life that even when the hall ceiling fell down, the girls just turned over and went back to sleep.

Bethany life produces maturity and stimulates growth, while spiritually enriching the residents. The bond between the girls is based on Christian fellowship, a bond lasting beyond graduation.

How Do They Do It?

This question has been asked many times of the married students here at Fort Wayne Bible College. Words like faith, trust, and commitment, come from those beautiful couples who reside on and around campus, couples who comprise an important unit of our student body.

"Married life is unique," stated one student, "and times of fellowship with other marrieds were times of sharing and growth." Fun times together, plus serious times when they challenged themselves and the student body, made this an exciting and event-filled year. Marriage and studies can mix.

SAGA Food Service at Its Best

From All-American breakfasts to candelight dinners, the cafeteria of B.C. was constantly in the process of keeping refueled all who came through the lines of Saga Food Service. Sandy Rhonemus, through her able leadership, brought a variety of special meals and events to our cafeteria. Remember: the Circus, the Disappearing Knives, the Thanksgiving Dinner, the Christmas Dinner, the many meals of Youth Conference, the Exam-Week Study Breaks, a Breakfast Outdoors, the Labor Day Picnic, and many other filling meals for our physical bodies.

So thanks to Sandy, the cooks, and all the workers for keeping us refueled for His service.

BOTTOM CENTER: What-'a'y'all have, Peggers? BOTTOM RIGHT: Steve, aren't you being a little pushy?

Versatility is Key

Student Library Worker's Perspective

I sit here and I listen to all the tired sighs
As students search these massive shelves
Thinking they will die
If they don't find the answers for Dr. Wes' class.

Then I see triumphant smiles as they loudly slam the books
That they've been searching for so long
In shelves endlessly they looked.

It's over now and they go home to rest their spinning heads.
Tomorrow is another day but now they'll go to bed.

S.A.B.

Undoubtedly the most versatile hall of learning ever to be found on any campus must be the library: the answer to everything. A puppet show is performed over the IMC railing, a typewriter pounds out a paper, a classical piece is earphoned into a sleepy ear, a carousel rotates years of art history, a xerox machine shortcuts time spent in the library with a close-reserve book, and a myriad of other events and objects fill the library. A C.S. assignment is provided with A-V means, a paper is formulated, a theology assignment is nearly conquered, and a "kiddie lit" marathon is near the finish line. The library is also a common meeting place: dates are memorized and categorized, and dates of another nature are formalized and confirmed. When it is all "stacked up", the library is a very special part of the B.C. life.

Seniors Kidnap Dr. Warner

All power ceased. At one end of the hall clad personages began a journey. The destination: Dr. Warner's office. Many onlookers stand by. The mission: the abduction of Dr. and Mrs. Tim. The hideout: Atz's Ice Cream Parlor. Seniors, you certainly know how to leave behind a very memorable "first of its kind" at B.C.

The week-long 75th Anniversary celebration was climaxed by the Alumni Banquet on Friday evening followed by a concert by Steve and Maria. Classes of the 60's and before attended the banquet in Founders with Howard Dunlap emceeing. The more recent alumni attended at First Missionary Church where Dick Baxter emceed a program geared to delight the parents of the class of 1980. The honored guests were Jonas Ringinberg, interim president from 1944-1945, and Rose Lehman, a member of the first graduating class. A highlight of the evening was the presentation of the first copy of A Vine of God's Own Planting, a history of the college, to Dr. Jared Gerig, the author.

An Ending for Today . . .

The 75h Anniversary of Fort Wayne Bible College was brought to a moving finish by the Commencement of the Senior Class. Two former leaders of the Bible College Rev. J. A. Ringenberg and Dr. Jared Gerig, led in the reading of the Scripture and in prayer respectively.

Dr. Louis L. King, President of the C.M. & A. Church, challenged the Seniors and all who attended with his message, "Commitment and Conquest". For some of the School's present leaders this would be their final Commencement. These men are Rev. Howard Dunlap (Head of the Alumni Association), Ira Gerig (Professor of Music), Dr. Morris B. Jacobsen (Academic Dean), and Dr. Timothy M. Warner (President). After the strains of the Alma Mater and the Benediction given by Mr. Dale Farrier (Chairman of the Governing Board), another class of this "Vine of God's Own Planting" went forth to serve Jesus Christ.

Is but a Beginning for Tomorrow

Lord of our inner life, where choices are made, help us to guard the citadel of freedom which Thou hast put in our souls. Keep us from making foolish choices which lead to slavery or to a character which is less than our best. May Christ so dominate our hearts that in our work and recreation and friendship we shall choose to do His will and share His abundant life by joyously living and sacrificing for the common good. Thus may we help in the coming of Thy Kingdom, Amen.

Reflectively . . .

Impressions—a yearbook leaves only a small fleeting impression of the complexities involved in one year. It provides a mean of recalling a special fact or an enriching moment in that particular year. It records the students' impressions of places, people, and the organizations of which they are a part. However, this publication only leaves an impression of what the year was like.

Just as this book is only an impression, my opportunity as editor has given me many impressions of people of whom I have come in contact. I must admit, I have received both good and bad impressions. But, looking at all positively, many individuals I have worked with this year have changed me, molded me, matured me—impressed me to the extent of improving my editorial abilities and maturing faith in the Lord Jesus Christ.

With this in mind, I would like to thank both Miss Conrad and Miss Strahm, the advisors, for their hours and hours of service to the Vine. Thanks to Miss Conrad for her special help in photography, darkroom managing and constant suggestions which improved the publication. Also, thanks to Miss Strahm for her sense of humor, encouragement, and constant creative, knowledgeable input. Special thanks is given also to David Fortreide who always helped when the staff needed him. His contribution to the Vine encouraged the staff as well as improved the quality of this book.

So many people helped in different ways; it is difficult to express appreciation to all. I do thank the staff for all of their diligence and hard work during the year. Also, the Vine staff thanks the staff, faculty, administration, and students for their willingness to share information, materials, and time to help produce the 1979-80 yearbook.
